TA/TF Contract for Grader

Term/Year _____

Instructor _____

Course _____

Enrollment _____

Position Description

Graders are responsible for evaluating course assignments according to established criteria (such as rubrics) that are made available to students and applied equitably. Grader positions allow graduate students to develop more in-depth knowledge of course content and learn how to grade fairly and effectively, balancing the need to provide useful feedback to students with the demand to return work in a timely manner while receiving mentoring and instruction on effective grading from the course instructor.

Policies and Contract Terms

University regulations stipulate 300 hours (20 hours per week) total per term as the maximum number of work hours required of TAs/TFs/GSAs. The Department of History of Art and Architecture has determined that grading TAs/TFs have 250 hours available each term for grading, attending lectures, and related duties (see page 2 for a breakdown of these duties).

All Grader TAs/TFs are assigned to a specific lecture course; they are to do grading ONLY for that course to which they have been assigned. TA/TF/GSA responsibilities for any digitizing or computer work should be related to the evaluation of course content. Training for such duties should be calculated in the maximum number of work hours stated above.

The recommended assignments for graders include one final and two midterms, or the equivalent (i.e., quizzes or a short, two- to three-page paper in place of a midterm).

These recommendations are based on the following estimates: 20 minutes as the amount of time needed to grade an average essay midterm/final or two- to three-page paper. Therefore, graders should spend no more than one hour per student for grading over the course of the semester.

TA/TF Grading Assignments for the Term:

Instructor is to provide TA/TF with a syllabus at the beginning of the term with dates clearly indicated for all exams, quizzes, and papers. Instructor should also provide assessment rubrics for all graded work and mentor TAs/TFs on grading. It is also recommended that the instructor calculates grading time with the TA/TF at the beginning of the term. Grading beyond the maximum of one hour per student over the course of the semester is the responsibility of the instructor. Grade disputes between TA/ TF and student should be handled in consultation with the instructor.

A grader's term work hours are to be broken down as follows: 100 hours grading per 100 students (or one hour per student over the course of the semester); 45 hours attendance at lecture (three hours each week for 15 weeks); 30 hours office hours (two hours each week for 15 weeks); 75 hours for meetings with course supervisor, doing assigned readings, and related duties (five hours each week for 15 weeks). The remaining hours out of the 300 for the term constitute release time and will not be configured in the grader work assignment.
